PORK PICKIN'S

by Earl Pickett

Appomattox Pork Producers

Several events are upcoming which will help many of our local producers upgrade their breeding herds, thus, greatly improving the quality of pork or pigs they produce.

The first State Feeder Pig Show at Richmond on September 29th at the State Fairgrounds. At the sale which will follow the show, one may find some excellent gilt pigs which could be raised and find a place in the breeding herd.

The second event is the Crossbred Gilt Sale to be held at the Farmville Livestock Market on October 11, 1973 at 7:00 p.m. This sale will be co-sponsored by the South Central Feeder Pig Association and the Piedmont Pork Producers Association. These gilts will come from some of the outstanding commercial herds o Virginia. All gilts will be state graded and must grade Fancy to be in the sale. The gilts will be auctioned to the highest bidder with that day's Market hog prices as the base price. This will be an excellent opportunity for a producer to purchase gilts which can improve the herd. The gilts will be predominately two-way crosses.

The hog-corn ratio dropped again this week to 18.4. As this ratio drops, good management and good breeding stock become more and more important.

ISLANDER PORK STEAKS

4 pork blade steaks, cut ¾ to 1-inch thick
3 slices bacon, cut in ¼-inch pieces
1 can (8¼ oz.) Dole Sliced Pineapple
½ cup Kikkoman Soy Sauce
½ cup dry sherry
¼ cup finely chopped onion

Add pineapple syrup and remaining ingredients except pork steaks to bacon; mix well. Pour marinade over chops; cover. Marinate 4 to 6 hours or overnight in refrigerator, turning steaks occasionally. Remove steaks, reserving marinade. Place steaks on grill about 5 inches above low glowing coals and grill 14 to 16 minutes on first side; turn, grill 12 to 14 minutes longer. Brush steaks frequently with marinade. Dip pineapple slices into marinade; place on grill last 10 minutes of cooking time. Serve steaks topped with pineapple slices. Makes 4 servings.

It is easy to give a lie a covering of truth and thus fool others. We find this duplicity in much of the advertising we see and hear. A woman I once knew had been married and divorced several times. Three of her husbands were used car salesmen. She said she could not believe anything any of them said. Yet they could make so convincing a sales pitch that a person could buy and old car from them certain that he was getting the bargain of a lifetime.

It is possible that in our everyday lives we are living a lie and covering it up with half-truths? Do we profess that we are of God's Church, yet indulge in the ways of the world?

Fashion is another of the lords Satan has working for him. A sanctimonious woman attended a certain church. She never missed a prayer meeting or Sabbath School or church service. She could and did pray long prayers, as though telling God how to run His Business, unfortunately, her witness bore no fruit. During the week she dressed and painted her face quite immodestly.

Do we let the fasion of the world impair the modesty of God's church? There is one remedy - get out from under Satan's lords. Trust constantly in Jesus and His Spirit and Victory will be yours -

ASCS Official Explains New Farm Bill

"The new farm bill contains provisions which will encourage farmers to produce more grains, cotton and crops the marketplace demands," according to James R. Ford, Jr., Chairman of the Appomattox County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation (ASCS) Committee.

Mr. Ford outlined the basic job of the farm program agency in carrying out the provisons of the new law, titled the Agriculture and Consumer Protection Act of 1973, and enumerated some of the new concepts in the 1973 bill. He also noted that the 1973 Act, signed into law by President Nixon August 10, replaces the Agricultural Act of 1970, which expires December 31, 1973.

Mr. Ford said, "Our job will be to execute the new bill's provisions in such a way as to encourages the kind of agricultural production which will assure ample supplies of food and fiber for American consumers and for growing export sales opportunities. Under the provisions of the new law, farmers will have more freedom to use their resources in the way they feel will earn them the most income from the marketplace." he also pointed out that farmers income will be p r o t e c t e d through commodity loans which assist producers in marketing their crops in an orderly manner.

"Also adding income protection", Mr. Ford said, "is the new target prices feature of the bill. The guaranteed price provision offers income assurance to farmers by triggering deficiency payments when market prices fall below the target levels. The guaranteed prices for 1974 and 1975 are $2.05/bushel for wheat, $1.38/bushel for corn and 38 cents/pound for cotton." He added that for 1976 and 1977 the target prices will be adjusted to reflect changes in farm costs and yield levels.

"Another form of income assurance offered to farmers," he said, "will be payments to eligible producers prevented from planting or harvesting crops by natural disasters."

"The bill also authorizes the continuation of a program to offer cost-sharing assistance to farmers for conservation projects," the Chairman said. "The feature establishes long-term, permanent conservation practices under the Rural Environmental Assistance Program & the Water Bank Program."

"The new law provides that the total amount of payments a person may receive under one or more of the wheat, feed grain and upland cotton programs may not e x c e e d $20,000," he said.

Services and programs are made available by ASCS without regard to race, color, religion, sex. or national origin.

Wanted . . . Girl Scout Leaders

Hundreds of girls all throughout the Virginia Skyline Girl Scout Council between the ages of 6 to 17 sign their names to very long waiting lists and then wait. They wait . . . and wait for a Leader. There's a place to meet in the different churches, club rooms, and schools; but there is no Leader. So . . . they wait.

Today Girl Scouting serves one out of every seven girls in the U.S.A. It could and would serve many thousands more if those adults who care about our youth would volunteer to be leaders.

Right now the Girl Scouts in our area need you. The Council stands ready to provide leadership training and to give you all the help you want, so that you can work in partnership with girls, sharing your skills, your enthusiasm, and some of your time.

If you are interested, call or write your local Girl Scout Council. In this area, call Mrs. Gladys Moon.

Am I Covered

Q - I am an insurance agent and I disagree with your answer in a recent column in which you said that all coverage under a homeowners policy becomes void when the dwelling is vacant or unoccupied beyond 60 days. In another part of the policy, it is stated that the insurer grants permission for unlimited vacancy or unoccupancy except as otherwise provided for certain perils. What do you say?

A - You are correct in pointing out that a homeowner's policy provides unlimited vacancy or unoccupancy" except as otherwise provided in this policy for certain specified perils." This is where the problem arises since a variety of forms and coverages are available. Some of the limitations of coverage which should concern you are as follows:

1. Vandalism - Some forms exclude coverage after 30 days of vacancy.

2. Freezing or heating of piping, air-conditioning and domestic appliances - Most forms exclude coverage during vacancy or unoccupancy unless the insured has exercised due diligence to provide heat or has drained the systems and has cut off the water.

3. Some forms limit glass coverage when the building is vacant beyond 30 days.

4. Some forms exclude coverage for water damage after 30 day of vacancy for sudden and accidental discharge, leakage, etc.

The point worth making is that different insurers provide a variety of coverages and while all coverages do not cease after 30 or 60 days of unoccupancy or vacancy, it is imperative that your insured know of these limitations and that he advise you should he plan to vacate or not occupy his premises for any extended length of time.
